

My only source of actively earned income is the money I make from freelance written translation projects and live interpreting. This is rather meager and I am often paid in cash. In my bank account, as of writing this, have $16,734.88 in my bank account. The bulk of this was a recent gift from my father, who kindly gives me $15,000 each year in allowance to subsidize my itinerant lifestyle. Gomde CA does not charge me for rent, and my monthly expense amounts to roughly $190 between Car insurance, phone payments, and subscriptions.

Other possible sources of funding could include crowdfunding, a method I used in the past when my home was destroyed in a storm. I do not have other opportunities to raise the money for this retreat before the retreat actually begins.
